'SYNERGY'

News-Ledger photos by ERIC HARDING

The City of West Sacramento unveiled a new public artwork in Riverpoint Marketplace, off Ikea Court, last week.

'Ziggurat' building hosts CBS show

West Sacramento provided the film site for scenes from the TV show "The Mentalist" last week, reported the Sacramento Bee.

The show focuses on a fictitious law enforcement bureau based in Sacramento. But it's usually filmed in the Los Angeles area. The CBS show stars Simon Baker.

Last week, though, filming came north. On Thursday, said the Bee, the film crew used an eighth-floor balcony of this city's "ziggurat" building (the stepped pyramid along the waterfront) for a "restaurant" scene. The building offers a view of Old Sacramento and the capital.

The building is home to the state's Department of General Services.

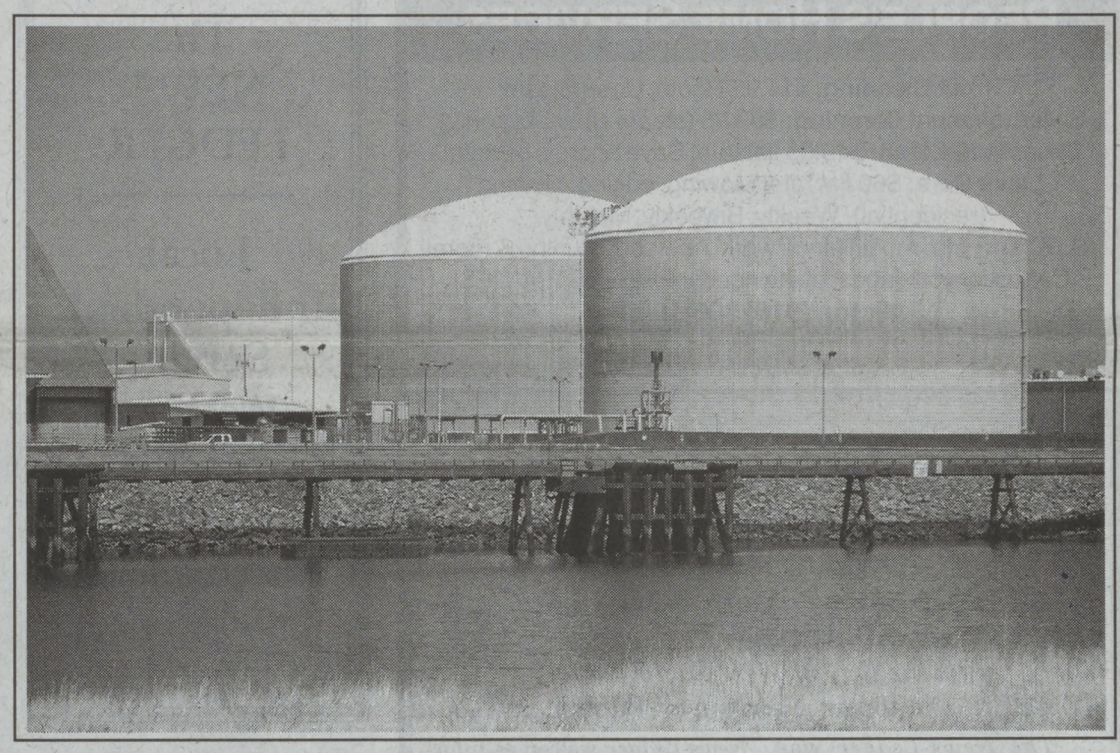
Companies detail hazmat risks

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Three West Sacramento facilities have provided Yolo County with "Risk Management Plan" updates concerning their use of hazardous materials. The three are all located in an industrial area just north of the barge canal and west of the port.

The main concern at all three businesses is anhydrous ammonia, which can be "extremely corrosive" to human tissue and is fatal

See AMMONIA, p. 4



Agrium's twin storage tanks can hold about 79 million pounds of liquid anhydrous ammonia.

Redevelopment chief rides off

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Val Toppenberg remembers one day back in the 1980s, when he was working on the other side of the river for the Sacramento Housing and Redevelopment Agency.

"I was in the director's office at SHRA, and his window looked west," Toppenberg recalled. "I was in his office looking out his window, and I said 'why doesn't somebody do something over there'?"

The "over there" was West Sacramento, especially its undeveloped and blighted riverfront. In 1989, West Sacramento hired Toppenberg to "do something about it." The city made Toppenberg director of the redevelopment agency – a post he kept until he retired last month.

"I believed West Sacramento had terrific potential," he told the News-Ledger. "It was like a passion fulfilled."

In those early years of the city – which formed in 1987 – city officials were trying to make plans for West Sac's future. They didn't always agree. But they did come up with master plans for different areas of town – often within the city's large "redevelopment area."

"The debate was healthy for West Sacramento, because it resulted in a 'Triangle' plan (for what is now called the 'Bridges' area), the Washington Specific Plan, and a Southport plan that were done in a way to encourage high quality growth," he said. "The questions were, what is good for West Sacramento, and what can we expect from developers?"

A "redevelopment agency" operates within boundaries of a map – in this case, the VAL TOPPENBERG, director of West Sac's redevelopment agency for 20 years, hopes to spend some of his 'retired' life bicycling on roads and trails. He's seen here on River Walk Park -- a walkway developed partly by the redevelopment agency.

Behind him is the city's landmark 'ziggurat' building. It was built with a redevelopment agency subsidy that brought the Money Store lending company to West Sacramento as the city's first office tower project (the building is now occupied by the state). At right is the new CalSTRS tower.

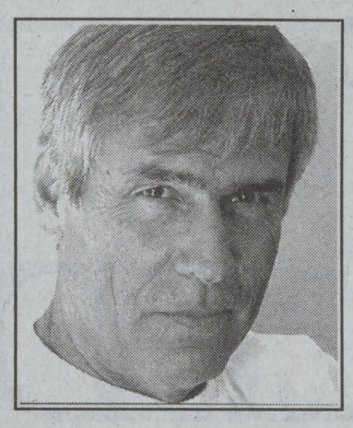
'Dorothy the Goldfish' has become extinct

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

If you will recall, awhile back I wrote a column about my four-year old grandson's goldfish, Dorothy. She had been purchased by my daughter and son-in-law (Carrie and Dallas) as a kind of compromise when my grandson (Riley) had announced that he wanted a hamster, figuring that a goldfish would be much easier to take care of than a real animal with fur and droppings and everything.

Riley named Dorothy after Elmo's goldfish on Sesame Street and was of course thrilled to have his very own pet floating around in her tiny tank in his bedroom. However, Dorothy soon developed "twigs", a parasitic infection that left my daughter with the "heeby-jeebies". And since Dallas was out of town on business, I was called in to perform emergency tweezer-surgery on the stick-like appendages growing all over Dorothy's body. Although the high-stakes surgery seemed to be successful, Dorothy was never really quite as robust as your typical goldfish again, which brings me to my little story:

"You're not going to believe what just happened," my daughter called to inform me a few hours ago.

"What?" I asked.

"Dorothy has died."

"You mean the goldfish I almost killed with your tweezers? How did that happen?"

"I don't know. I guess she just passed away peacefully in her sleep or something. I had just put Riley in the tub for his morning bath, and when I went back into his room to get some clean clothes for him, there was poor Dorothy, floating on her side on the top of the water in her tank."

"So what did you do?"

"I went and got Dallas of course."

"And what did Dallas do?"

"He tried to sneak the little tank of water with Dorothy in it past the bathroom without Riley seeing him."

"And did that work?"

"No, Riley spotted him and wanted to know what was going on."

"Then what happened?"

"Well, I told Dallas he had to go into the bathroom and break the sad news to Riley that Dorothy was dead."

"And what did Dallas say?"

"He said I should be the one to go in the bathroom and give Riley the bad news."

"And what did you say?"

"I told him that since I was the one who had to get fat as a cow and give birth to Riley, he was the one in charge of breaking bad news to him."

"So Dallas told him?"

"You had to be there to believe it, Dad," said my daughter, trying to hold back her laughter.

"What's so funny?"

"Well, Dallas went into the bathroom, knelt down next to the tub, and with these really sad, serious eyes, said, `Riley, I'm afraid I have some really bad news for you, son.'"

"What's a matter, Papa?" asked Riley with concern.

"Well, son, Dorothy is no longer with us."

"Where did she go?" asked Riley, puzzled.

"Well, son, I'm afraid she passed away."

Noticing that the concept of passing away had also more or less gone over Riley's head, Dallas looked over to my daughter for help, but she couldn't think of any to give him. Then, suddenly remembering that Riley knows everything this is to know about dinosaurs, including how they all died, he said, "Son, do you remember what happened to all the dinosaurs?"

"Sure," said Riley, quickly warming to one of his favorite subjects, "they got extinct!"

"That's right," said Dallas, sure that he had just hit on a great way to explain Dorothy's demise.

"You see, Papa," continued Riley, always happy to talk about dinosaurs, "there used to be lots and lots of dinosaurs. But then one day a giant meteor hit our planet and it made the sky all dark and the dinosaurs couldn't eat and they got very cold and they got extinct."

"That's absolutely right, Riley," said Dallas, "and that's what I've been trying to tell you, son – that Dorothy has become extinct."

Riley took a long, studied look at his father, and then informed him, "Papa, I don't think goldfish get extinct — only dinosaurs do that."

Finally, with no other options left, Dallas took a deep breath and said to Riley, "Dorothy has died, son. I'm very sorry, but your goldfish is dead."

Riley then took a few seconds to let what his father had just told him sink in and finally said matter-of-factly, "Okay, then can we go get another goldfish?"

Note: After much discussion, flushing Dorothy down the toilet didn't seem quite right, but a full memorial service in my daughter's backyard with popsicle sticks to mark the grave seemed a little over the top, too, so Dorothy was wrapped up in a nice paper towel and gently placed in the family garbage can. Oh, and Riley named his new goldfish Hony Baloney.

Brush fire stops the trains

Last Wednesday, West Sacramento firefighters responded to a grass fire behind Triangle Ct. The fire's proximity to the railroad tracks called for the temporary shutdown of all railroad activity. The units Engine and Brush 44, Engine 43, Engine 41, Engine 45, Water 45 and Duty 4101 were all on scene attending to the approximately two-acre grass fire.

Fine foods & Yolo history

Celebrate the roots of Yolo County history with wine, food and recollections of the past. The Winters History Project presents Winters Horticultural Symposium: A Legacy of John Reid Wolfskill on Aug. 26 in Winters.

The event includes a tour of the University of California, Davis, Wolfskill Experiment Station, a symposium held at The Palms, located inside the Winters Opera House, olive-oil tasting, a luncheon at the Buckhorn Restaurant and a wine reception.

The day-long event was inspired by the UC Farm Institute, held in 1897 at the Winters Opera House, as a way to educate local farmers about the latest agricultural techniques and crop varieties. Similar symposiums were held throughout the state periodically.

"It was the forerunner of the UC Cooperative Extension farm advisors that we have today," said Richard Rominger, former deputy secretary of the U.S. Department of Agriculture and former director of the California Department of Food

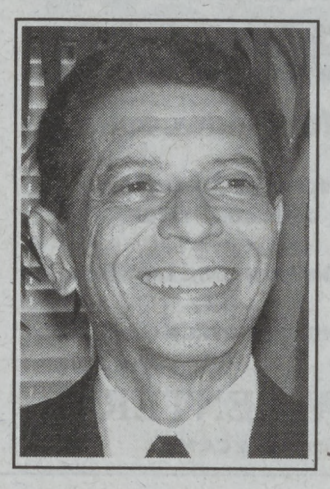
SPORTS INSIDER



By Richard Novoa

It sure feels great being back in good old "West Sacramento" after gallivanting all over the Eastern European continent recruiting contestants and visitors for Sacramento's Masters Games scheduled to arrive to the State Capital in 2010/2011.

I found myself fifty miles from the Russia border, where visitors were greeted coming off their flights with a thermometer and a H1N1 survey. If you had a slight fever, the authorities admitted to a hospital for two-day quarantine. I was a bit nervous on my departure date because I had ended up with a bad cough and battled a fever for a couple of days but I escaped without incident.

Anyway, my two week adventure also took me to Rome, Italy but my main focus was in Finland where I had the pleasure to visit Helsinki and Lahti, Finland as a member of the Sacramento Sports Commission. I worked for one week providing Spanish language translation to athletes and potential visitors from Spanish speaking countries to plan their trips to California for the 2011 World Masters Games (http://www.wma2011.com).

The Sacramento Sports Commission was in Finland attending the 2009 WMG to extend a personal invitation to the athletes of the world to join us two years from now for an unforgettable experience in visiting Sacramento and the Golden State of California's wonderful vacation destinations. The 2009 World Games in Finland attracted over 6,000 contestants competing for their countries.

This major sporting event will create a $20 to $25 million economic impact to Northern California with hotel, food and shopping dollars spent in our local economy. It's a big deal for our economy plus it's a wonderful experience to see veterans or should I say older men and woman working out their bodies preparing for their running, jumping, or throwing events and just watching them experiencing the time of their lives competing for Gold, Silver and Bronze medals in Olympic Track and Field events.

The date of the Sacramento World Masters Games event is July 6-17, 2011. Contestants will compete over 11 days at Sacramento State (Hornet Stadium), Sacramento City College (Hughes Stadium) and Folsom High School. The WMA Championships is an international track and field competition for "masters" athletes age 35 and over and Sacramento will play host to the world's biggest track and field competition in 2011.

So, it's time to break out the old track shoes and join the fun because Sacramento will also be the home for the United States version of the World Games. Three months after landing the biggest masters competition in the world, the Sacramento Sports Commission made a successful bid to host the 2010 USA Masters Outdoor Track & Field Championships after making a presentation at USA Track & Field's annual convention in Honolulu in 2008.

The four-day event will be held July 7-11, 2010, at Sacramento State's A.G. Spanos Sports Complex. Approximately 1,000 athletes ranging in age from 35 to over 90 are expected to compete in Olympic Track and Field events.

NFL Highlights

As the Niners and Raiders prepare to face off this weekend their exhibition game at Candlestick Park it appears the Raiders Coach Tom Cable has already got into his assistant coaches Randy Hanson's face. Reports out of their Napa training camp suggests some tension involving fist-a-cuffs in which Hanson ended up with a broken jaw. The Raiders are trying to sell the fact that Hanson fell off his chair and hurt himself!

The Raiders camp has no comment but let's hope the Silver and Black save some that energy for the "Battle of the Bay" on Saturday night (5:15p.m.-ch.13or ch.58).

But I guess some things never change because Brett Favre is still taking about returning to the NFL and Michael Vick is still in the news?

Diamond Notes

It's great to return the USA and pick up where I left off with my beloved Giants (64-54) still in the wild card hunt trailing the Rockies by just one game but only behind the slumping first place Dodgers by 5 ½ games. Dodgers could choke down the stretch so every game is crucial for the Giants which makes it fun to watch baseball again.

The Giants, who split a four game series with the Mets this week in New York, are now headed to Cincinnati for three games but a big four-game series awaits them in Colorado. It's do or die series for the G-Men because its followed by two at home against Arizona and then three more games against the Rockies at AT&T Park starting August 28th. The G-Men and the Rockies are locked in a battle for the Wild Card spot with the Cubs, Marlins and Braves.

The G-Men are still lacking that middle of the line up punch waiting for someone to rise to the occasion especially newly acquired first baseman Garko, who isn't hitting his weight (.208). Maybe newly acquired Freddy Sanchez can provide a new punch or how about the hot hitting Velez, who is hitting (.306) out of his mind.

Unfortunately, the Oakland A's (53-65) are still in the cellar in the West but they did get rid of some of their old weight releasing Jason Giambi and bring up some young players from the River Cats.

Even though the sports world is suffering through their own version of economic depression the owners still manage to hand out signing bonus to the top draft picks. The Washington Nationals gave some young kid a 4-year deal worth $15 million. Stephen Strasburg is represented by sports agent Scott Boras who also had six other youngsters sign bonus contracts with these broke baseball owners for a combined total of over $20 million.

The A's also joined in the big money parade by signing local catcher Max Stassi, a fourth-round pick in the Major League Baseball player draft held in June, to a $1.5 million bonus contract while the Giants handed a $3.3 million check to pitcher, Zack Wheeler.

Give Stassi's agent credit because Major League baseball guidelines suggest that Stassi should have been signed closer to the $236,000 range instead of being awarded his instant millionaire card. I guess it's OK because in his 4-year varsity career Stassi batted .514 with 40 home runs and 162 RBI's.

River Cats

When I left for Europe the Gatos were in first place leading the Fresno Grizzlies and they still are leading the pack and in fact have the best record (76-46) in the Pacific Coast League and poised to host another round of the PCL playoffs at Raley Field in September.

The River Cats are on the road this week continuing their eight game road trip to Tennessee and will return to the friendly confines of Raley Field on Saturday, August 22nd to host Portland in a four game series followed by a five game set with Fresno starting on the 26th.

Enjoy your day -- see ya next week!

Seventh- & eighth-graders soon welcome at Collings Teen Center

Courtesy of the Collings Teen Center

On Aug. 26, the Collings Teen Center in West Sacramento opens up its After-School Drop-In program to middle-schoolers for the first time.

"We won't ever eliminate or diminish our programming for high-school students," said Don Bosley, CTC's executive director in a press release. "But with the tremendous facilities and location that we have at CTC, we've all sensed for some time that we needed to open our doors to the middle-schoolers as well."

CTC's After-School Drop-In program has been in place for high school students since 2004. But in the past two years, the city has seen broad changes within the Washington Unified School District – including the move of River City High School to its new Southport campus and the dissolution of Golden State Middle School in favor of K-8 elementary schools.

Geographically, those changes have pushed much of the high-school population farther away from CTC's Merkley Avenue location, but simultaneously brought many middle-school students within closer proximity.

"The people of this community came together years ago and gave us these 12,000 square feet full of pool tables, basketball courts, classrooms, ping-pong tables, computer labs, video-game decks, and everything else a youth center could possibly want," said Bosley. "In our mind, we've got a great opportunity and responsibility to embrace as many young people as we can with it."

The After-School Drop-In program runs from 2-6 p.m. every school day, and includes a free hot meal through CTC's Late Lunch program.

Bosley also announced that CTC was rolling out new programming for 2009-10, including Second Mile, an incentives-based empowerment strategy. Students earn virtual "wages" by engaging in community service or attending workshops for life skills, job skills, money management, or computer literacy. Those virtual "wages" can then be spent on enrichment opportunities – such as snow trips and sporting events – or used to buy merchandise like laptop computers and video-gaming systems.

with heavy exposure. The substance forms a liquid under pressure or at cold temperatures, but can form a vapor cloud if released.

Raley's Production Bakery on Seaport Boulevard reports using about 6,000 pounds of anhydrous ammonia in its refrigeration systems, according to documents on file at the county health department. C&S Wholesale Grocers on Channel Drive reports using up to 11,300 pounds of the substance its refrigeration system.

Neither facility reports any significant releases or accidents involving anhydrous ammonia in the past five years.

Handling much larger quantities of anhydrous ammonia is Agrium U.S., Inc., with a facility on Channel Drive and a pier along the barge canal in West Sacramento.

According to its risk management plan, viewed by the News-Ledger, Agrium's two domed storage tanks can store up to 79 million pounds of the substance. In the tanks, anhydrous ammonia is stored at low pressure in cold, liquid form.

The substance arrives at the plant by ship or barge – a process not covered in the plant's risk management plan. The plant also receives the nitrogen-rich substance urea, and ships all these items, along with fertilizer compounds, by rail and truck.

For the risk management plan, the company outlined a "worst case scenario" spill. The spill could bring 200 part-per-million exposure to people up to five miles away, according to the plan. The area for potential exposure includes virtually all of West Sacramento as well as western Sacramento – including a total population of about 96,500 according to the 2000 census.

State guidelines say people can begin to smell anhydrous ammonia at five parts per million. An exposure of 400 parts per million causes immediate throat irritation. An exposure of 2,500 parts per million for a half hour could be life threatening.

Agrium has had a good reputation for safety in West Sacramento for many years.

Said Jason Rizzi, hazardous materials manager for the West Sacramento Fire Department:

"I inspect the facility annually. It's a very well run facility with competent people."

Nearby businesses have been trained on how to react to an ammonia leak, said Rizzi. Possible reactions include evacuation, if possible, or "sheltering in place" – getting to a closed room and remaining until safe.

If a spill affected residents, they would be advised of danger "by fire engine, police car, door-to-door" and by the city's "reverse 911" phone call system. Depending on the nature of the spill and on wind and weather, they'd be told whether to evacuate or "shelter in place," said Rizzi.

Agrium is based in Canada. The local plant manager at Agrium is Bobby Franklin.

"Our facility has won the Agrium safety award for two of the last five years, and the other three years, we were in second place," Franklin told the News-Ledger. The injury rate at the plant is "one third of the industry average – we've had three injuries here in a space of nine years, and none of those was hazardous materials-related."

He will be assisted by Carolyn DeBuse, UCCE orchard systems farm advisor for Solano and Yolo counties. The USDA National Clonal Germplasm Repository is located at the station and will also be included on the tour.

Olive oil tasting will be provided by Dan Flynn, director of the UC Davis Olive Center. Lunch will follow at noon in Winters at the Buckhorn Restaurant on Main Street.

The symposium begins at 2 p.m. at The Palms, 13 Main Street, Winters. The program includes Karen Ross, president of the California Association of Winegrape Growers and a member of the State Board of Food and Agriculture. She will discuss the "Vision of California Agriculture in 2030" that the State Board and CDFA are developing. Joann Larkey, local historian, will talk about John Reid Wolfskill, who arrived in the Winters area in 1842 to take up a Mexican Land Grant. He planted the first commercial orchards and vineyards in the Sacramento Valley. Winters farmers and processors on the program are Russ Lester, Marty Mariani, Joe Martinez, Craig McNamara and Stan Tufts, whose grandfather was the first director of the Wolfskill Experiment Station.

A reception will follow, with wine from Berryessa Gap and Rominger West, at the Winters Center for the Arts, where an exhibit of Winters historical photographs and agricultural artifacts can be seen.

Reservations may be made by credit card through the web site: http://wintershorticultural-symposium.eventbrite.com, or by check made out to Winters History Project and mailed c/o Woody Fridae, 112 Liwai Village Ct., Winters, CA 95694. The cost for the full day is $45 per person, or $20 for the symposium and reception only.

Police log

The "Police Log" is taken from preliminary police documents. The facts have not been verified through investigation or trial.

Aug. 8

A Cedarbrook Road resident reported that credit card information had been obtained by somebody and fraudulently used.

Aug. 9, 9:30 p.m.

A vehicle was found burglarized on Ballpark Drive. Missing were gift cards and an ATM card – which was later used by someone in Sacramento.

Aug. 11

A 19-year old Southport man reported that somebody burglarized a vehicle parked on Merkley Avenue. The thief took an in-dash CD player and a radar detector – as well as a rifle from the trunk.

Aug. 11, 6:10 a.m.

A resident of Catalina Island Road reported that somebody has spray-painted on the garage. It could be the same person(s) who recently egged the home.

Aug. 11

A 29-year old resident of McDowell Lane said someone had found his wallet and then used his pre-paid credit card and personal information to place bets at Internet gambling sites.

Aug. 11

A man reported that someone stole his truck from within a Soule Street tow yard.

Aug. 11

A resident of Riverbank Road said somebody took a UPS package from the front porch – and also made off with a red wagon and garden decorations.

Aug. 11, 4:32 p.m.

A supermarket in Southport reported having a 14-year old female shoplifting suspect in custody. Store security personnel had notified the girl's parents, but they declined to pick her up and asked that she be taken into police custody.

Aug. 11, 9:03 p.m.

A resident of the 2000-block of West Capitol said subjects had thrown rocks onto her roof and had shined a flashlight in her window. It was an ongoing problem.

Aug. 12, 6 a.m.

The tailgate was reported stolen from a city-owned pickup truck parked at the 1900-block of South River Road.

Aug. 13, 8:18 a.m.

The window of a Triangle Court building was reported to have been broken during the night.

Aug. 13, 9:37 a.m.

An 11th Street man said another man had become mad at him for calling the police. The caller had called police earlier to report that the other subject had possibly tampered with the heating unit in the apartment complex.

Aug. 13, 11:12 a.m.

A car parked on the 2100-block of Stone Blvd. was found burglarized. The crime occurred during the past hour. The facility's security camera video was being checked for evidence.

Aug. 13, 7:30 p.m.

A fire was reported in bark mulch along Ikea Court.

Aug. 13, 7:52 p.m.

A caller said that a truck and motorcycle had been racing up and down an alley near Linden Road and Mojave Drive. The subjects were now "hanging out" nearby.

Aug. 13, 7:58 p.m.

A man came into the police department lobby to report that his Toyota station wagon had been burglarized at the Broderick Boat Ramp around 7 p.m.

Aug. 13, 8:24 p.m.

A drug store on the 1200-block of West Capitol reported that a man had tried to steal some "Sponge Bob" merchandise. The goods had been recovered, and the subject was now walking northbound on Jefferson.

Aug. 13, 10:03 p.m.

Subjects were reportedly throwing firecrackers from a vehicle onto the street along Hobson Avenue.

Aug. 13, 5:55 p.m.

On C Street, an officer contacted a 56-year old West Sacramento man after seeing the man walk away from an open can of beer with beer in it. The man said he had not been drinking, only collecting cans. A records check showed a warrant for the subject. He was arrested.

Aug. 13, 9:10 p.m.

An officer contacted a 19-year old Sacramento man in a car near Spokane Road and Mojave Drive. The intoxicated subject fought with police and was jailed.

Aug. 13, 9:04 p.m.

A man reported finding another person's credit cards.

Aug. 14, 2:30 a.m.

A man reported that a vehicle window had been broken in an attempted theft of a car stereo on Silverwood Road.

TBD

Madison:
September 10
TBD

Dunnigan, Yolo, Zamora:
September 14, 7:00 p.m.
Zamora Town Hall
9810 Blacks Street, Zamora

Esparto:
September 17
TBD

More information will follow on meeting times and locations yet to be determined, as well as information regarding additional meetings as they become scheduled.

Yolo County Health Officer Dr. Joseph Iser would like to remind all Yolo County residents to take the following precautions to protect themselves from becoming ill:

- Wash your hands with soap and hot water to get rid of germs and to prevent the spread of disease. If you do not have soap and water, use a waterless hand gel with an alcohol base of at least 60%.
- Avoid kissing or shaking hands with people, and do not share food, drinks or utensils.
- Avoid touching your eyes, nose or mouth. Germs spread this way.
- Try to avoid close contact with sick people.
- Get the vaccine for seasonal flu, and if you are in a risk group for H1N1, get that vaccine when it becomes available.

redevelopment area includes much of the city's business district and riverfront area some commercial areas just south of the barge canal. State law says the area must be "blighted" Within the area, extra portions of property tax revenue can stay "local" for use on redevelopment projects.

"We try to fix up the old parts of town, reclaim the waterfront for retail and residential living, and try to encourage job creation in West Sacramento," explained Toppenberg.

One of the peculiarities of this city's redevelopment agency – as it was set up by Yolo County and adopted by the city council – was that it included Southport farmland zoned for industry, but excluded nearby housing subdivisions still operating on septic systems.

"If I were designing the project area, I would have designed it differently," said Toppenberg. "I probably would have included more of the old residential areas that needed repairs, but the county left those out. We were handed a project area and it is hard to change it."

Then there's "eminent domain," the famous process by which a government agency can sometimes force a property owner to sell out. Toppenberg said the process was used only sparingly by his agency. The "eminent domain" process was started several times, but the two parties usually reached a settlement.

"While I was working for the city, we went to trial only one time on eminent domain," said Toppenberg. "It was for the old Broderick Market (which the city deemed a crime-attracting nuisance and sought to shut down). We used eminent domain a couple other times, filing lawsuits – once for a dirty bookstore, and once for a pair of properties on the waterfront area we were unable to purchase."

And "the city never took a single residential unit by eminent domain – not once," he stressed.

The agency is responsible for buying the old "Vacation Inn" motel and closing it down, back in Toppenberg's early years.

"We acquired that through negotiation," he said. "That single site was responsible for seven percent of the city's police calls. Once, when I walked in, there was a manager up front with a sign behind him with the day rate and the room cost. It offered half price if you're out by 5 p.m. If that wasn't blatant catering to prostitution, I don't know what is!"

The city's closure of the Vacation Inn resulted in a lawsuit from housing advocates – and a requirement that West Sacramento build replacing housing at public expense.

Mostly, the agency builds infrastructure as a way to encourage private development, said Toppenberg.

"The agency has built a lot of infrastructure – streets, bridges and West Capitol infrastructure, for example," he said. "The next tool is developer agreements – owner participation agreements. The agency will build something in return for the owner promising to build something else. Metro Place is an example of an agency owned property sold to a developer. We knew exactly what the developer was going to do when we closed on that transaction."

'Once, when I walked in, there was a manager up front with a sign behind him with the day rate and the room cost. It offered half price if you're out by 5 p.m. If that wasn't blatant catering to prostitution, I don't know what is!'

In '96, West Sacramento scored a visible coup when it subsidized the 'ziggurat' building project with redevelopment agency money. The Money Store lending company built the waterfront building, becoming the first in a growing series of waterfront office towers.

A few years later, the redevelopment agency helped make the deal for Raley Field get done – much to the ire of Sacramento's leaders, who had been hotly competing for the Triple-A baseball stadium.

The agency has helped build such housing complexes such as Holly Courts and West Capitol Courtyards, it helped bring the California Fuel Cell Partnership to town, and has played a role in the Indian museum planned for the north area.

"We didn't put any money into the Indian Heritage Center, but the agency put up the land," he said.

What about the failures?

"Lighthouse Marina didn't work," said Toppenberg, referring to the planned residential development featuring a marina and golf course. That development was sold by its Japanese-based owners, and has morphed into the "Rivers" upscale subdivision. Plans for a marina are dead, and the old golf course was removed for financial reasons.

"It was a great concept, but the meltdown in the Japanese economy in the '90s really killed it. . . It was a said day when we all through in the towel on the golf course."

Another regret is the failure to land a major Genentech company facility.

"Genentech was a spectacular miss," said Toppenberg. "We worked our butts off to get Genentech – we even considered offering to buy them a helicopter to get them to town. We talked internally about that – it would have cost about $250,000, and would have allowed them to commute to their San Francisco headquarters. That may have made a difference, but we didn't think it would 'fly,' politically."

A little incident during the courtship of Genentech officials probably didn't help:

"They sent one of their engineers and another guy up here to get a tour," said Toppenberg. "We were on a levee in an SUV, with some of our people along. As we were going past the weir behind the CHP academy, there was a pickup parked off the levee. One of the city guys said 'pull over, let me see if they're dumping trash.' "

So, with the Genentech folks in the vehicle, they drove up to the pickup truck – and instantly regretted it.

"There was a woman on her knees on the seat of the truck (performing a sex act) on the guy in the driver's seat. I said, 'I don't think their dumping trash.' We drove away. It was one of my most embarrassing moments."

Another big loss, said Toppenberg, was the MacMillan Bloedel newspaper recycling plant that courted a site in Southport.

"That was a very controversial plant," he said. "Like it or not, it would have changed West Sacramento. There would have been hundreds of millions of dollars invested in this project and it would have provided hundreds of good-paying jobs."

West Sacramento was relieved of the need to approve or disapprove the plant, because the paper market changed and the plant dropped its plans.

"Some of the other losses were 'good news,'" he remarked. "One of these was the casino."

The planned Indian casino was headed for the Riverpoint area, near where Ikea is now. It was deep-sixed by state officials. The same property had made attempts to become an auto dealer center, a factory outlet center and an outdoor-themed mall.

"What we got instead was Ikea, Walmart, Home Depot, Community Business Bank, and a Ross that is getting ready to open," said Toppenberg.

Another major project – now on hold – is a partnership with the Cordish Company to plan the development of about 200 acres along the river and barge canal. A master plan may go back to the drawing board "due to the economy."

Toppenberg is married, with two teens, and lives in Southport. He's currently remodeling another house. He hopes to get some recreational time in now that he's retired.

"I'm looking forward to riding (bikes) more," he said. "And when I get through remodeling this house, I may buy another house. I find that fun."

What's it like to look back on his career in West Sacramento?

"I came to West Sacramento 20 years ago, and I told my wife I would be here five years. In the last 15 years, I never found a more interesting place to work, a more attractive job to do or a better city council. The city managers and council were terrific to work with."

SWAT action

Law enforcement personnel converge on Betty Way early yesterday morning (this 'still photo' comes from video, courtesy of Evan White)

Sacramento police and the Yolo County SWAT (Special Weapons and Tactics) team paid a call to the 2700-block of Betty Way in West Sacramento early yesterday morning.

According to one neighbor, the officers used a battering ram and tear gas at the home, immediately after yelling "Open up! We have a warrant!"

Officer Konrad Von Schoech of the Sacramento Police Department told the News-Ledger that his agency had a warrant regarding firearms violations.

Arrested in the 7 a.m. raid was Richard Parker, age 36.

"He was arrested on two felony counts, including being a felon in possession of firearms and ammunition," said Von Schoech.

The idea of Go Figure is to arrive at the figures given at the bottom and right-hand columns of the diagram by following the arithmetic signs in the order they are given (that is, from left to right and top to bottom). Use only the numbers below the diagram to complete its blank squares and use each of the nine numbers only once.

"The Complete Billy Jack Collection" — Four awesome-packed films. One sturdy cardboard box. Tom Laughlin stars as Billy Jack: Half American Indian, Half-Green Beret, Half Righteous Kung-Fu Champion of The Little Guy and Half Dude Who Isn't Too Good at Math But No One Cares Cuz He's BILLY JACK! This boxed set contains the entire Billy Jack saga: "The Born Losers," "Billy Jack," "The Trial of Billy Jack" and "Billy Jack Goes to Washington." It's a '70s Grindhouse Nostalgia Burger with extra cheese and shoved down the throat of The Man, baby!

BUYING SIGHT UNSEEN

"Sgt. Pepper Live: Cheap Trick" — Exactly what the title implies: The classic Beatles album performed live by my favorite 1970s and '80s power pop quartet, Cheap Trick. Backing the group are an Indian combo and a full orchestra, as they perform the album from start to finish. I wonder if Bun E. Carlos will pull a Ringo and sing "A Little Help From My Friends"?

"My Weakness Is Strong" — The latest standup comedy performance by one of my favorite comics, Patton Oswalt. It's a marathon two-disc set, and if it's anything like his "Feelin' Kinda Patton" show, I'll be feeling like a puppy came down from heaven to motorboat my back fat.

DOG OF THE WEEK

"Batman: The Brave and the Bold" Vol. 1 — "The Brave and the Bold" is one of the best cartoon series on TV right now. The show beautifully captures the light-hearted look and attitude of the '60s comic book. The problem I have is not with the show, but with this DVD release. It contains only four episodes, not the entire series. Which means Warner Bros. is sticking it to the fans the same way it's been doing for years: Releasing shows a few episodes at a time and then later releasing a boxed set of the entire series with extras and other goodies, so we pay twice for the same product. Don't buy this set. You're getting ripped off. Wait for the entire season to be released.

A New Twist on School Lunches

A new school year also rings in some interesting ideas for school lunches. I've noticed that if children help to prepare a meal, they're more inclined to try new things. Your child's school lunch can provide a healthy, mid-day meal, and a teaching moment about how to make wise food choices.

Introduce your children to the food pyramid and explain that they need to eat at least five servings of fruits and vegetables each day. Have your child pick out some of his or her favorite foods from each group. Create special sandwiches, snacks and drinks for lunch, and let children assist you with the "recipes" and choosing the names. Make preparing your child's lunch a family activity after school or dinner.

Lunch also has gone environmentally friendly with several new ways to package your child's meal. Some schools have even implemented a "waste-free" lunch program to reduce the numerous bags, boxes, cans, cartons and pieces of paper, foil and plastic wrap that are typically used when preparing lunch.

The old brown paper lunch sack has been replaced with reusable bags made from food-safe, recycled materials. The modern lunchbox is thermal insulated, has several compartments (including one for ice packs) and elastic straps that hold everything in place. Have your children label the items in their lunch kit and remind them to bring everything home.

Prepare these delicious Wheat Biscuit Shortbread Cookies with your child and place a few in his or her new eco-friendly lunch box, along with a sandwich, fruit, some vegetables cut into sticks and a favorite low-calorie dip.

WHEAT BISCUIT SHORTBREAD COOKIES

This buttery shortbread is a treat for all ages. Kids can help stir the dough with a wooden spoon.

- 2 sticks unsalted butter, at room temperature
- 2/3 cup granulated sugar
- 2 teaspoons vanilla extract
- 1/2 teaspoon fine salt
- 1 1/4 cups unbleached all-purpose flour
- 1 cup white whole-wheat flour

1. Arrange the racks in the upper and lower thirds of the oven and preheat the oven to 325 F. Line 2 large cookie sheets with parchment paper or silicone sheets.

2. In a large bowl, combine butter, sugar, vanilla and salt at medium-low speed just until smooth. Add the flours and mix until just blended. Divide the dough in half and then shape, without overhandling, into 2 disks.

3. On a lightly floured surface, roll 1 piece of dough out into a 13-inch-long, 1/4-inch-thick square. Using a ruler and a fluted pastry wheel or a large knife, trim the edges and cut into 2- by 1-inch rectangles. Transfer the cookies to the baking sheets, spacing 1 1/2 inches apart. Reroll the scraps and repeat with the remaining dough. Mark each cookie several times by poking with the tines of a fork, then chill the pans in the refrigerator for 10 minutes. Bake the cookies for about 17 minutes, until golden and nearly firm in the center. Let cool for 5 minutes on the baking sheets and transfer to racks to cool completely. Makes approximately 3 dozen cookies.

Chocolate-Dipped Shortbread: Finely chop 4 ounces semisweet and 4 ounces of dark chocolate. Place half of the chocolate in a heatproof bowl set over a saucepan with 1 inch of simmering water and stir until the chocolate is melted and smooth. Add the remaining chocolate to the bowl; remove the bowl from the pot and place on a folded towel. Stir occasionally until the chocolate is smooth. Scrape the chocolate into a small bowl. Line a baking sheet with clean parchment or waxed paper. Dip the cookies halfway into the chocolate, let the excess drip off, and then place on the paper-lined sheet; let stand until set and dry, at least 1 hour.

No-host bar & food. Check-in starts at 6 p.m. and games start at 7 p.m. Open to the first 104 players, with prizes for the top four. $30 buy-in. The event will be held at the VFW Post on Drever Street.

Yolo Co. Fair

The free-admission Yolo County Fair opens on Wed., Aug. 19, and runs through Sunday, Aug. 23 (some agricultural judging occurs on Aug. 18). The fair features entertainment (mostly free), agricultural exhibits, crafts, refreshments for sale, carnival rides for purchase, and more. It is held at the Yolo County Fairgrounds, 1125 East St. in Woodland. For information, phone (530) 402-2222 or visit www.yolocountyfair.com.

Your winter garden

The Bryte and Broderick Community Action Group will offer classes on "starting your winter garden" on two Saturday morning, Sept. 5, from 9-11 a.m. at the Bryte Park Picnic Area on Todhunter Ave. Learn how to select varieties for winter and early spring. Visit www.bryteandbroderick.org for information.

Fight cancer

A "pink boot drive" is planned for Sunday, Aug. 23, at Fire Station 45, near Jefferson Blvd. and Lake Washington Blvd. You're invited to drop off donations to fight breast cancer. There will also be refreshments for sale and a raffle. Proceeds go to the Susan G. Komen Foundation.

Get cool

Seniors and anyone else who needs a place to go to get out of the heat are invited to the "cooling center" at the West Sacramento Senior Center, 664 Cummins Way. The center opens on days the temperature reaches 100 or more, from 7:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. on weekdays and noon to 8 on weekends. For information, call 373-5819 or email christinep@cityofwestsacramento.org.

Food drive

Through Aug. 21, you can take part in a food drive to help those in need get through the summer months. Make a monetary donation at Raley's supermarket, and 100 percent of your donation will go to the Food For Families program, and will be distributed to area food banks. Partners in the program include News10. For other collection points, visit "Hero Central" at www.news10.net.

"Book getaway"

Participate in this summer's "Great Book Getaway" through August 30. Email the local library with the author and title of the book you chose to take on your summer getaway and why, or send a photo of you and the book en route or at your destination. You'll get a free Yolo County Library book bag – while supplies last. Submissions will be posted at http://turnerlibrary.wordpress.com. Send your email to: cheryl.chapel@yolocounty.org. Sponsored by West Sacramento Friends of the Library.

Flurescent bulbs

You can now drop off old fluorescent bulbs and tubes at the Yolo County Landfill at any time the landfill is open. There is a $2.00 convenience fee, whether you are dropping off one bulb or many. The bulbs are banned from disposal in the trash, because they contain mercury which can pose environmental and health problems if disposed of improperly.

Food giveaway

The Yolo County Food Bank will distribute food to eligible residents from 10:30-11:30 a.m. at the Clarksburg Firehouse on Aug. 24 and from 9-10 a.m. at the West Sacramento County Building, 500 Jefferson Blvd., on Aug. 25. Commodities to be distributed include green beans, carrots, corn, oats, frozen deli turkey and fresh eggs. Please bring a bag and choose only one site. For more information, call (530) 668-0690.

Yolo County gourmet

Opening night of the Yolo County Fair will feature a celebration of "Yolo County Bounty": local wines, olive oils, fruits and vegetables, meats, preserves and more. There will be tasting and educational booths. Tickets are $10 ($15 at the door). The event will be held from 6-8 p.m. at the Ag Business Building on the fairgrounds in Woodland on Wed., Aug. 19. A limited number of tickets are available for purchase through the West Sacramento Chamber of Commerce; call them at 371-7042.

Help with literacy

The Yolo County Library's adult literacy program ("Yolo Reads") is looking for volunteers to help with community outreach and event planning, between August and October. The program provides free and confidential instruction to English-speaking adults. No experience necessary and hours are flexible. Event planning knowledge is helpful. Call (866) 609-7303 or email heather.bratt@yolocounty.org.

Interchange project

Caltrans has begun work on improvements to the Harbor Boulevard/U.S. 50 freeway interchange – a project estimated to last until about June, 2010. The work will realign freeway ramps, widen the road, and update the overcrossing structure to accommodate traffic growth. There will be occasional lane closures and detours, but the interchange will remain open.

School materials

The Yolo County Board of Education plans a hearing on instructional materials on Thurs., Aug. 13, at 5:05 p.m. at its conference center, 1280 Santa Anita Court, Suite 120, Woodland, CA.

Your recipes wanted

The West Sacramento Friends of the Library are collecting recipes to be compiled into a cookbook sold for fundraising. You're invited to submit your favorites to be listed with your name. Complete a "Recipe Collection Sheet and return it to the library, 840 Jefferson Blvd., by Aug. 14. The sheet and instructions are available at the library, at city hall and at the West Sacramento Senior Center on Cummins Way.

Seniors' health

The YMCA at 2021 W St. in Sacramento (corner of 21st) will host a "senior health fair" on Sept. 9 from 9:30-11:30 a.m. Over 50 agencies will participate with information on various topics, and there will be free hearing tests, blood pressure checks and flexibility tests available. No charge.

Kids' teeth

CommuniCare Health Center in Davis will host free dental screenings and fluoride treatments for Yolo County children up to age five, on Sat., Aug. 22, from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Spanish language translators will be available. The event will be held at 2051 John Jones Rd. in Davis. Open to Yolo County residents. For an appointment, parents should call (530) 757-4667 and mention the "Saturday Clinic."

Visit King Tut

The Delta Divas are planning a trip to the DeYoung Museum in San Francisco on Oct. 10 to view the Tutankhamun exhibit. A motorcoach will depart at 9 a.m. from West Sacramento and return at 7 p.m. Cost of $78 includes brunch on the bus, museum admission and a tip for the driver. For reservations, call Marlene Perini, 371-4224.

Art Guild

The West Sacramento Art Guild meets every month on the fourth Thursday at the West Sacramento Historical Museum, 324 Third Street. Artists and art enthusiasts are welcome. Future meetings include 3 p.m on August 27.

A new 'clean diesel goat truck'

Devine Intermodal, a Sacramento-based intermodal transportation company, has been awarded a $30,000 "Clean Air Funds" grant from the Yolo-Solano Air Quality Management District toward the purchase of a new, clean-diesel "goat" truck for use at the Farmers' Rice Cooperative facility next to the Port of West Sacramento.

"Diesel engine technology has advanced so significantly in recent years that exhaust particulate matter can be almost entirely eliminated," said Dick Coyle, President of Devine Intermodal, in a press release. "The Air District grant enabled us to move forward with purchasing the new truck, which will provide immediate air-quality benefits."

The subsidy helped Devine purchase the $96,000 truck, which is used for moving rice containers between staging and loading areas at the Port. The yard truck previously operating at the Farmers' Rice facility will be scrapped.

The Yolo-Solano Air Quality Management District Clean Air Funds Program is designed to reduce emissions from motor vehicles by supporting cleaner vehicle technologies, alternative modes of transportation, and educating the public about air pollution. The program offers incentive funding for mobile sources of air pollution that are not subject to district regulation or other state for federal air pollution laws.

"We're pleased to see Devine taking advantage of this program to replace an aging and higher polluting piece of equipment. This is exactly the type of effort we want to support," said Mat Ehrhardt, executive director of the Yolo-Solano Air Quality Management District.

The $550,000 program is funded from an annual Department of Motor Vehicles registration fee of $4 per vehicle, and from AB 8 property tax proceeds for Solano County projects.
